"I, for one, have often felt underprepared when faced with making career, financial and other life decisions. The Art of Smart, a new interactive seminar series, comes to our rescue. We feature experts who answer audience questions and present information to help us avoid costly mistakes. These experts include financial planners, medical practice attorneys, practice consultants, and life coaches, as well as any professional required to answer queries you send in. We don't sell or share your information with anyone and you're under no obligation to buy anything ever. Please join us and do not miss this unique opportunity. What you learn could change your career and life trajectory for the better. Thanks, and I look forward to seeing you at the seminars."
